CLOUD CATHEDRAL... An inflated tent, reputed to be the first of its kind in the area, will be the scene of services here beginning tomorrow evening. The tent, kept in position by air pressure, is located at Crenshaw Blvd. and Monterey. (Herald Photo)

Youthful Evangelist to Begin Services in 'Cloud Cathedral'

David deWaal, 21 year old youth evangelist, will be the speaker in the Cloud Cathedral, 1801 Crenshaw, one block south of Carson, beginning on April 8 and continuing through June 5. There will be four services a week — Friday, Saturday, Sunday and Wednesday

For the first time on the west coast permission has been granted for the erection of an "airborne" tabernacle for evangelistic meetings. The large structure which seat up to 1000 people is supported entirely by low air pressure from two giant turbines.

DAVID deWAAL To Open Series Here

MR. deWAAL came to America three years ago from South Africa and is at present a law and theology student. His great grandfather was a pioneer to South Africa. His great grandfather was mayor of Cape Town. David's grandfather was Speaker of the House of Parliament, Doctor of Literature and an attorney at law. His father was an attorney and counsel to the Queen of England, a politician, public debater, author and an avowed atheist.

Thousands in Canada and coast to coast have heard the thrilling story of David's conversion, his daring trip from Africa, through Europe and to America. Youth have been fascinated as he unravels the events that led him from the world to a discovery of a new way of life.

Navy Raises Enlistment Requirements

The local Navy Recruiting Office located at 114 Coral Way in Redondo Beach announced this week that the mental requirements for enlisting in the Navy have been raised 18 per cent effective April 1.

Boatswain Mate First Class, Thomas A. Coleman, points out that "it is necessary that young men entering the Navy today be of higher mental caliber to be trained to operate the complex machinery used in today's modern ships and aircraft. Men who cannot meet the requirements have little chance of learning to operate the equipment used every day in the fleet."

"This has two advantages," Coleman said. "First, savings of taxpayers dollars by not having to give extra instructions to inept men, and second, more proficient men who can put their abilities to use for the Navy and if they do not make the Navy a lifetime career they will be trained for better positions when returning to civilian life."

The Department of Defense requires that a few men be enlisted with low qualifying scores and a waiting list of men in this category will be started on a first come first served basis.
